

Home > Opinion

WEST LAFAYETTE, IN

Print Story | E-Mail S

Contractor helps resident dig out of snow

Comments 0 | Recommend 3

February 2, 2009 - 10:55 PM

To the Editor:

Thompson Court, a cul-de-sac lined with recently constructed townhouses, does not yet bear a street sign. However, it still felt the burden of this week's winter storm.

Covered in almost a foot of snow, the road was not passable by 2-wheel drive vehicles.

Thankfully workers from a construction group, Atlas Excavating (which is currently building the addition near Seymour Tubing), saw my despair trying to free my sedan from the snow and ice left by last night's storm and came to my rescue.

The men assisted me in breaking the thick sheet of ice off the door of my car and plowed my driveway and all of Thompson Court.

They were not paid for their help, but their generosity was greatly appreciated.

Cori Melick
Seymour, Ind.

Other Article

- Weekly rev
- Obama list
- Writer: One others
- Letter write
- Smoking b

Most Viewed

- Can Katie sw
- Charting a ne
- ARRESTS 3-
- City taking ba
- INCIDENTS 2

Most Comme

- Drive-by sen
- Tax on bonus scare us
- Veterans des
- Meth lab part
- Writer: One ill

Most Recom

- Smoking bar
- Immanuel ei national tour